FREE TO PRISONERS

multi-millionairie minister Michael Heseltine, unleashed Gotterdammerung on Britain's working class with his October announcement that every pit in the country was to be axed. The pit closures plan is vindictive score-settling against the National Union of Miners, revenge for Heath's humiliation in 1974 and bringing Thatchula to the brink of resignation in the 1984-5 strike. Heseltine's economic excuses for pit closure are total bollocks - he won't axe nuclear power even though it's so uneconomic his party couldn't even privatise it, North Sea gas is going to burn out in a decade, oil-fired stations are obviously more costly than coal assuming lethal pollutants and carcinogens like orimulsion aren't burned in them, and it's no surprise miners in UK can't work as cheaply as child labour in Latin America. Holier-than-thou greens that think it's a choice between coal or acid rain are full of shit - coal'll be imported if it's not mined here.

Everyone's rallied round the miners (even yuppies pissed off about not being able to pay their mortgages), London's seen some of the biggest marches this decade, and even arch-Tory Rupert Murdoch's Daily Mirror printed posters in their support! Thanx to the intervention of anti-European Thatcherite MPs like Winston Churchill - trying to fuck up Major and support their lackeys in the Union of Democratic Mineworkers that they sets up -5 strike - about a quarter of the pits are going to close next year, not this.

GA supports the miners, as we did in the last great strike, but notes that control of the existing old order surrwithout cutting our own throats.

H.M.S. VANGUARD THE START OF SEA TRIALS for HMS Vanguard, the British nuclear submarine destined to carry new Trident missiles, met fierce resistance from peace activists.

When it was launched from Barrow on 23rd October, Sea Action tried intercepting it in the Walney Channel in the hope that they could hold it up long enough for the tide to go down and the sub to be stranded on mud flats. Heavy policing saved the sub.

When HMS Vanguard got to the end of its journey at Faslane base on the Clyde two days later, Sea Action were waiting for them again. A peace flotilla consisting of nine inflatables, four canoes, three sailing boats and a jetski surrounded the Vanguard. Although the cops rammed, capsized and confiscated one sail boat, Faslane Sea Action's dingy got close enough for the ITN camera crew on board to film activists knocking on the sub's hull!

Faradawn & the Western Sea Elves explain the meaning of Earth Night

EARTH NIGHT is not a new thing, they've been going on for some time in Australia and the US. They're caused a lot of damage there, especially when actions have been concentrated against one particular company or issue at a time. Britain's first Earth Night took place on 5th November 1992, an ideal day for acts of defiance. Due to lack of publicity, the response was small, but even so survey stakes were wrecked and the odd dozer went up in smoke. The next Earth Night was on 14th February (St Valentines Day Massacre) and another is due on 1st April, when all supposedly "misguided fools" can strike back with a vengeance.

But why the need for Earth Night? We all know the green arguments already - the main focus should now be time. We no longer have time to fart about waving our green @'s in the air and mouthing revolution. The spate of recent oil spills, the crap Rio Summit, the sheer slaughter at Twyford Down, the renewed Norwegian whale culls and the last stand mobilization of the hunt lobby tells us little folk that the time is right to strike back. There's now sympathy for our actions, especially when so many communities are threatened with the road lobbies hammer.

1993 must be the year the Underground really puts the fear of Gaia into the State and toe tailing companies. The message must be short and sharp - enough is enough! If that means bringing whole motorways to a halt and razing MacDonalds and Tarmac, ARC and ICI offices to the ground, then so be it. With so many targets to hit at one time, the press can't fail to mention it.

It is hoped that all ALF cells will also celebrate Earth Nights. The aims of ELF and ALF are more or less the same. The only difference is that ELF see the need to stop continued land rape by destroying machines and premises that will deprive our kin of a natural future when freed from their suffering in laboratories and fur farms. Otherwise, their lives and habitats will be fucked up the same as ours.

Whatever the targets hit - be they laboratories, abbatoirs, construction sites or offices, chemical plants, biotechnology research stations, monoculture plantations or whatever - we must make sure that just the slight mention that Earth Night is approaching will send shivers down our enemies backs. What they don't lose in damage, they will lose in security bills. Let 1993 see the formation of the eco-underground and a declaration of no quarter. The State will then know the Eco-Wars have begun.

THE LAND ISSUE

A SETTLEMENT WITH NATURE

George French outlines his strategy for a sustainable planet

"Examine each question in term of what is ethically and aesthetically right... A thing is right when it tends to preserve the integrity, stability and beauty of the biotic community. It is wrong when it tends otherwise".

Aldo Leopold 'A Sand Country 3 ton-Almanac' 1949

THE ULTIMATE FUCK-UP, the metaethical equivalent of drowning in our own shit, must be the daily extermination of 140 other lifeforms so that 2 ton we in the West can transform tropical rainforest into trash like hamburgers and chipboard, the atrocity of species extinction makes Hitler's Holocaust, Hiroshima and Vietnam seem like minor misdemeaners on the road to ton good intentions. The human species is at war with nature and means to bring about its painful death.

The daily round of slaughter demands a solution that resolves, once and for all, our ecological and psychic crisis. the solution proposed here is described as a settlement with nature because it lays bare the two things people need to do if they want to live the ecocentric 'good-life'. At the heart of this notion of the ecocentric 'good-life' is the acceptance that a settlement with nature demands that:

1. Humans must live a form of life that results in diversity of cultures, ecosystems and species. 2. Humans must live a form of life that secures inter- and intragenerational equity for all species. 3. Humans must live a form of life that secures the 'biopsychic' well-being of all species.

Embracing such ecocentric notions of the good life involves casting off old technocentric baggage and making the Castenadian leap into the final frontier of non-dualistic nature, species liberation and the moral standing of trees. All of the, almost invisible, assumptions that underpin our technocentric world view and make the rape of the earth seem inevitable, good and even beautiful are discarded. To be replaced by the radical prescriptions of global reforestation and small scale Tribalism. Taken together these primal prescriptions proide the ecological and cultural conditions for a settlement with nature and allow humans to observe their full duty to diversity, equity and realisation.

Global reforestation is certainly the panacea to our ecological crisis. Trees are the real wealth of nations in being able to supply the basic needs of Britain's 50 million citizens on an authentically sustainable basis. We know forests are the world's lungs which purify and rejuvenate the air. Forests reduce wind speeds and regulate climatic change. Forests are essential in the water catchment areas of the globe because they act as sponges and prevent soil erosion. Forests are the ultimate solar energy converters which as a sideline create that most miraculous of substances, soil, the ecocentrics 'black gold'. Finally and most importantly forests are most often the ecosystem that maximise species diversity.

Global reforestation means the transformation of Britain into an 80% temperate wet forest growing everystation as social revolution is inspired biological modes and means of product ton of toxic protein in the form of The second strand that can bring

Surely private property and the private ownership of nature is just not ecocentric. If the liberation of nature means anything it means the right not to be owned and used as a means and not as an end. Feminists have seen liberation in modernist terms and actively aid the patriarchal rape of the Earth. The anthropological perspective is needed on the diversity of gender relationships and the issue of sexuality as a social construct. lan of North Downs Earth First! on self-sufficiency

I BELIEVE THAT one of the first steps towards a free, decentralised world is taking back the power to feed ourselves from the multinationals who have to make the profit before people eat. Now when this sick society finally collapses, we can redistribute the land fairly, enabling local communities to control their own food supplies. But there are ways that we can gain some control now.

The allotment gives everyone for a small fee (about £6 a year in my area) access to land and if a small group can join together, they can form a group (the Green Anarchist Allotment Group?) with its own guidelines (ie. no chemicals, barter system &c). Where I live there are 1,100 plots. That's a lot of available land, because fewer people are taking up the plots. The developers have their beady eyes on them. The skills needed to grow your own food are easily picked up. Older allitment users are usually very happy to pass on their knowledge.

Another step available to all is the abundance of free or wild food. Many plants have been used as foodstuffs by people for centuries.

Most so-called weeds which we are told need destroying with chemicals before we can plant man-made vegetables are important foods, medicenes or dyes in their own right.

Free food is not just the privilege of people living in rural areas - many plants are found in public parks, waste land, hedges &c in town centres.

Dandelions - leaves eaten, young roots used as coffee substitute.

Dock leaves - make good stew.

Nettles - food, dye, clothes, even organic pesticide.

Rose hips - more Vitamin C than oranges.

Chick weed - really sweet salad.

Well, the list is endless - there are a couple of good books which may help identify all the plants, Richard Mabey's Food For Free and Roger Philips' Wild Food.

I know that whether grown or NOW to develop the skills to enable food is bloody empowering - and I of their own lives. feel that not only do we need to work at getting rid of this people- and Earth-destroying society, but we need

By going for the cheapest, easily found, best option transistors we've kept the cost down to under a tenner (batteries not included). Using GCSE science you should be able to build it up on a copper (ironic huh?) PCB using 'islands' cut out and superglued to the base. Keep all leads as short as possible, and don't forget to heat-sink transistors. You'l need a few basic tools and you can get the bitz from Maplin or Tandy but local DIY shops are cheaper and friendlier.

How it works - the oscillator gives the basic radio frequency, eg 143-144 MHz, 146-148 or 154-156 MHz by the values of L and C (eg 0.4uH = 5 turns of 26 SWG on 0.3" former). The IC LM741 just gives a tone, the note is set by the capacitance/resistor bridge network and 20K trimmer. The varicap diode OA202 modulates the RF. The signal is amplified by the 4 transistors. (If you want more oomph bolt on a couple of BLY 93A's with cooling fans and step back - but at £17 a throw I don't think we'll bother). From the 2N3055 push-pull amplifier we chuck the signal up the serial. S'easy, innit?

Do YOU long for a second chance to grasp as an adult the opportunity that somehow you missed at school?

Every October a hundred men and women take the plunge into full-time, mainly residential, adult education at RUSKIN COLLEGE, OXFORD, studying for one year as mature students on full state bursaries. They have been chosen not for their formal educational certificates and qualifications but because they showed potential and motivation - as evidenced by an active concern for their fellow men and women. They will mostly leave with Diplomas in the fields of Labour and Social Studies, History and Literature, and possessed of a new confidence in their ability to confront and even change the world which served them ill in their youth.

Dear GA,

I take issue with the "Citizen" on the bation' stains? Phrooaah!! front cover - we're not. The antifascist stuff. A "leftie" is better than Love + THINGS THAT BITE a "right". There must be confrontation on the street. And if they know SALacious XXX Tyndall's address why not do their own dirty work?

stand a chance. Which comes to the sabotage cells. Without organization, nobody would know what was going on. We don't have more than petrol bombs and air rifles. If we bomb local council HQs etc, Central Govt is operating a shrinking system already to make us dependant on private enterprise.

Self-sufficient communes turn the clock back hundreds of years. Travellers are living the alternative life already, but "time" is being called on that.

You're probably going to excommunicate me but realism is needed in heavy doses.

Best regards,

Carol of Liverpool.

FREEPOST FUN

Dear GA,

I was highly interested to see in GA30 your latest list of freepost and freephone numbers. they are highly useful as they provide a wonderful form of economic sabotage. But the thing is why limit ourselves to freepost addresses? As far as understand it, if you send some post that is wrongly stamped, the people receiving it have to pay for the missing postage AND pay a fine on top again. Therefore why not use this to our advantage? If you know an animal abuser address then post them a package WITHOUT any stamps on regardless of if it's freepost or not. If you're worried that the Post Office won't accept a package unless it's FREEPOST or correctly stamped then use a postbox. And if a brick won't fit in the postbox try a large A4 envelope full of gravel or even your brick smashed up.

If there is an animal abuser address, then there is an opportunity for economic sabotage.

Yours for animal liberation. R@bbix

DEATH TO DIESELS

Dear GA,

A tip you might like to pass on. Diesel engines rely on compression ignition. The existence in the diesel fuel of any 'antiknock' chemicals (used to prevent pre-ignition in petrol engines) will stop them starting - they won't start and no-one will know why without analysing the fuel. The easiest way to do this is to make some zinc antiknock by stirring up zinc dust with diesel whilst heating it for an hour or so (at, say, about 50 degrees). Or even better just put the zinc dust into the fuel tank - a tablespoon should fuck up the engine. Drilling a small hole and injecting an antiknock into the diesel tank will do for a diesel engine and much harmless laughter can ensue whilst watching the antics of those trying to get one going. Zinc dust is easy to obtain, but zinc stearate is used in making some types of sandpaper - just scrape it off.

When I was at school, we were disciplined with whacks on the arse. I hear that nowadays caning is banned. Will this lead to more schizophrenia than ever? I think so. And when you do get caught, how will you recognise authority as an enemy if their brainwashing leaves you feeling guilty? Six of the best would put you in no doubt about the enemy. VARIOUS - AGONY OF A CONTAMINATED SOCIETY LP

An international compilation of punk bands, classic tracks from Washington, Internal Autonomy (yeah, we get every -where), Terminus Scraps (A France, Oi Polloi), Rats Of Unusual Size amongst others.

A German import with a booklet but £5 from us at the AVO.

THATCHER ON ACID! Need I say more? Sounds like Blyth Power and unlike the LP version. Steve Ignorant does the rant over on Our Gods Are Falling Down, some songs off FRANK and some new ones, and just to prove they're cultural as well, they play MacBeth over the tune in the Illusion Of Being Together. Fab!

WAT TYLER sing about football and the little people and general teeny hell-raising. Male and female vocals and decent fraggle rock, with folk job of out-Leatherfacing Leatherface (a poor person's Motorhead). A good laugh and I'll be sending off for their CD (my first one).

Available from Active Distribution, BM Active, London WC1N 3XX.

PAPA BRITTLE - OBEY, CONSUME, MARRY AND REPRODUCE MINI-LP

Papa Brittle are not the A worthwhile fanzine with Back To sort of stuff I would even give a second listen to but their fusion of ravedance with indie guitar pop has that spark and intelligence that keeps Model Army.
